Teen shepherd takes down giant with sling shot!

King's officials heard asking, "Who is this kid?"

Jewish Wire Service, Bethlehem — A young new face pulled a major upset on the battlefield today as David, youngest son of Jesse, took down world-famous Philistine warrior, Goliath of Gath. The giant was formerly 221 and 0 in the "Give Me a Man" Open Challenge.

Unconfirmed sources report the youth is a homeschooled shepherd boy with no professional training in warfare and virtually no was truly amazing!" Jonathan, son of King Saul, is quoted as saying just following the battle, "I have got to meet this guy!"

Eye witnesses claim young David first injured the giant with his sling shot and then finished the job with Goliath's own sword.

Sources close to the throne report that King Saul is weighing his options on how to respond to this young new hero. One official, who wishes to remain unidentified, said that turned down the use of King Saul's personal armor just prior to the battle. The reason for the rejection is not yet clear. One witness claimed he heard David say, "This will never do." as he removed

King David wrote many of his greatest psalms, protected his family's sheep from wild beasts, and defeated the giant Goliath while still only a youth. He then went on to become his nation's greatest king. Three thousand years ago, David was a teenager willing to do hard things.

Fast forward to 2006. How do most teens spend their teen years?

Many think life begins after graduation. They treat the teen years as a vacation from responsibility. They seldom attempt anything difficult. They live for fun. Why? Because our modern culture expects nothing from them but disrespect and irresponsibility.

It's time to "rebel" against low expectations!

How can teenagers return to paths of greatness? By joining The Rebelution!
